A 43 m ABS-classed steel ketch motor-sailer built in 2010, with a 3,500 nm range under power, an Atlantic crossing to her name and five cabins for 10 guests.

Description

This 43 m steel motor-sailer was built in 2010 by Pax Navi Yachts to a design by Erkin Yagci and is classed by ABS for commercial yachting service. She combines the look of a luxury gulet with true blue-water ability, and is offered by her first owner.

She has proven herself offshore: in 2011 she crossed the Atlantic westbound under sail in 18 days. Her ketch rig carries 810 m² of sail plus a 712 m² asymmetric gennaker, handled by hydraulic furling and captive winches. Under power, twin Caterpillar C18 engines of 671 hp each give about 10 knots cruising and 13.5 knots maximum, and 25,870 litres of fuel give a range of roughly 3,500 nautical miles.

With a 9 m beam she offers generous volume. Ten guests sleep in five cabins: a full-beam master and two twin cabins aft of the saloon, and two large VIP cabins forward. Crew and service areas are kept apart from the guest spaces, with a lower-deck corridor linking engine room, galley, stores and crew quarters.

She is equipped for long periods away from port, with two 500 l/h watermakers, two 69 kW Caterpillar generators, extensive cold and dry storage and a professional galley and laundry. Her navigation system was replaced in 2017.

For guests she carries a 6.5 m tender with a 250 hp engine, a jet ski, a stand-up jet ski, two Seabobs and a range of towing toys. She has also worked as a charter yacht in the Mediterranean.
